LOS ANGELES – After an extensive national search, the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) has hired financial management planning expert Wayne Moore to be its new Chief Financial Officer. Moore will oversee the financial management of SCAG’s planning efforts, which include the six-county region covering Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura counties.

Moore previously served as the Assistant General Manager of the City of Los Angeles Department of Transportation. He also served as Chief Financial Officer for the City's Department of Public Works, where he prepared a ten-year Neighborhood Street Improvement Program and co-chaired the Mayor's Blue Ribbon Task Force on Infrastructure. Moore also served for 13 years at the Los Angeles Metropolitan Transportation Authority and its predecessor agencies. Moore serves as President and Chair of the Council on Finance and Administration for the California-Pacific Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, is a Board member of the Los Angeles Child Guidance Clinic and is an active member of the Southern California Chapter of the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Finance and a Master of Science degree in Public Administration from California State University, Los Angeles.

“Wayne’s extensive background in public financial management and his leadership in the community will reinforce SCAG’s ability to serve the region,” stated Mark Pisano, SCAG Executive Director.
